And the 12th Year of the Reign of K. GEORGE IIId.

Almanack
CONTAINING,

The Lunations; Eclipses; Sun's and Moon's rising-and setting; Moon's Place; rising and setting of some of the principal fixed Stars; Northing of the Pointers; Spring Tides; Time of High-Water; Judgment of the Weather; Courts in the four New-England Governments; Commencement Days at Cambridge, New-Haven, New-Jersey, Providence and Dartmouth; Feasts and Fast of the Church; Roads with the best Stages or Houses to put at, with the Distances between each of them respectively; Observations on the various Conditions and Circumstances of Men, considered as robust or delicate, free or servile, wealthy or indigent; and the Rules of HEALTH accommodated to each of them:— And many other Things useful and entertaining.

Calculated for the Meridian of BOSTON, in NEW-ENGLAND, Lat. 42 Deg. 25 Min. North.

By Nathanael Low,

A Student in PHYSIC.

H OPE springs eternal in the human Breast;
Man never is, but always to be blest:
The Soul uneasy and confin'd at Home,
Refts, and expatiates, in a Life to come.

COURTEOUS READER,

THIS is now the Tenth time my Almanack has made its Appearance before the indulgent Publick. And if Vanity, too often disposes many to speak of themselves, there are some Instances, in which, a total Silence might justly be supposed to result from a still greater Degree of it. The very favourable Reception of my Labors of this kind in Years past, has been manifested by the speedy Sale of vast Numbers of my Almanacks, in different Parts of the Country; insomuch that there would be Room to suspect me of that most shocking kind of Pride, which receives Applause with Indifference, did I not appear to be deeply impressed with a just Sense of Gratitude for this great though unmerited Favor of my Patrons, which has been so very obliging and is so highly agreeable to me. Animated by this Inciteme I have had a very special Regard, not only to the Correctness of my Calculations, but also to the Subject-matter of Entertainment; I have filled my vacant Pages with such Things as I apprehend would be most useful and most agreeable to the Public: Among which I have given you this Year some Observations on various Conditions and Circumstances of Men considered robust or delicate, free or servile, wealthy or indigent; together with the Rules of HEALTH accommodated to each of them respectively: And might have said something of the Prophylactic or Ways to prevent approaching Diseases, had my Pages admitted of sufficient Room. I have also inserted a short Poem on the Vanity of worldly Pleasures, which is some measure adapted to the Genius of the present Times; and some other Pieces which it is sincerely hoped will prove both useful and entertaining.

And now, courteous Reader, after informing you, that PROVIDENCE should preserve my Life and Health another Year, I may possibly do yet more for your Entertainment, inserting, in my next Almanack, some more curious and striking as well as useful Particulars. And so craving the Continuation of your Patronage and Protection, I desire to be your most obliged and very humble Servant,

Of the ECLIPSES for the Year 1772.

THERE will be Six Eclipses this Year 1772; four of the SUN, and two of the MOON, in the following Order, viz.

- I. The first will be a very small Eclipse of the Sun, on Thursday April 2d. at 12 Afternoon; invisible.
- II. The second will be of the Moon, on Friday April 17th. at 11 in the Morning; invisible.
- III. The third will be of the Sun, on Saturday May 2d. at 4 o'Clock Afternoon; invisible.
- IV. The fourth will be a very small Eclipse of the Sun, on Saturday September 26. at 8 Afternoon; invisible.
- V. The fifth will be of the Moon, on Lord's-Day October 11. at 1 o'Clock Afternoon: a very great Eclipse, but below the Horizon, ergo invisible.
- VI. The sixth and last will be of the Sun, on Monday October 26. at 5 o'Clock in the Morning; invisible.

The Planet Venus is Occidental, or Evening Star to the 12th Day of August;—thence Oriental, or Morning Star to the End of the Year.

The Names, Characters, and Explanation of the Planet's Aspects.

6 Conjunction, Is when two Planets are both in the same
Sign, Degree and Minute.

ff Semisextile. Two Planets are said to bear a Semisextile Aspect to each other when they are one Sign or 30 Deg. distant.

* Sextile. Two Planets are said to be in a Sextile Aspect with each other when they are
2 Signs, or 60 Deg. distant.

□ Quartile. Two Planets are said to be in Quartile
Aspect when they are 3 Signs or 90
Degrees distant from each other.

△ Trine. Two Planets are said to be in a Trine
Aspect when they are 4 Signs or 120
Degrees distant.

Vc. Quincunx, Is when two Planets are 5 Signs or 150
Deg. distant from each other.

8 Opposition. Two Planets are at Opposition when they are 6 Signs or 180 Deg distant.

Note. Astrologers are of Opinion that the ff. and the Vc.
Aspects are not so forcible in producing Changes on terrestrial Bodies and Affairs, as any one of the other Five.

The Letters P. N. in the great Column of the Almanack, are used to signify the Time when the Pointers to the North Pole are North, or perpendicular to the Horizon under the North, or over the North Pole.—As the Pointers are always above the Horizon in this Latitude, and visible in clear Nights, I judged that an Account of the Time of their Northing, or coming to the Meridian in the North (especially as these Stars are generally known) would be very useful in finding the Time of the Night.

N. B. The Pointers culminate, or come to the Meridian, and all the fixed Stars whose Declination does not exceed 47 Deg. 30 Min. rise, culminate, and set with us constantly sooner and sooner by about 4 Minutes a Day: So that though I have mentioned the rising, setting, &c. of the 7th.
Yard L. and the northing of the Pointers, only once or twice in each Month; yet by the right Application of this Rule, you may easily find these Things for any Day you please the whole Year.

Time, like a Stream that hastens from the Shore,
 Flies to an Ocean where 'tis known no more.

Of the various Conditions and Circumstances of Men, considered as robust or delicate, free or servile, wealthy or indigent; together with the Rules of Health accommodated to each of them respectively. From Dr. MACKENZIE.

THE several Conditions and Circumstances of Men, supposed to enjoy their usual Health, may be reduced to two Sorts, wiz. internal and external. The internal Conditions of Men are Strength, or Weakness of Constitution. Their external Circumstances are either Wealth, or Freedom, which enable them to live as they please; or Ambition and Poverty, which bind them down to splendid or obscure Servitude, and other Inconveniences.

Persons of a healthy and strong Constitution, should observe the two following Rules. The first is, to avoid a precise and uniform Diet, and to diversify their method of living; to be sometimes in the City, and sometimes in the Country; to Eat and Drink sometimes more, and sometimes less than usual, but always within the Bounds of Temperance, to partake of whatever wholesome Food comes in their way, be it ever so ordinary; to use at one time little, at another time much Exercise, and in short, by a various Life, to be always prepared, and ready, to fall in with any Condition which may be appointed for them in Providence.

The second Rule is, to be cautious not to destroy in their gay Days of Pleasure, and Health, by any great Excess or Debauchery, that vigour of Constitution which should support them under unavoidable Infirmitie.

On the other Hand, Persons of a tender and delicate Habit of Body (among whom Celus reckons most of those who live in great Cities, and all the Studious and Contemplative) should endeavour to repair by their Temperance, Regularity, and Care, what is perpetually impaired by their Weakness, Scituation, and Study; and in effect we often see that Persons of a weakly Constitution, who are immediately injured by any Excess and consequently obliged to be careful in the management of their Health, live more comfortably, and longer than those of a robust Constitution, who from a vain Confidence in their Vigour, are apt to despise all Rules and Order.

As to external Circumstances, those who by Birth or Acquisition, are possessed of a Fortune which makes them able, and of Disposition which makes them free to live as they please, having it in their Power to put every Rule in Practice that can conduce to the Preservation of their Health, are to blame if they neglect so great a Blessing, which every Man will know the value of and deplore, when once he has lost it.

Those again who either by Choice are engaged to serve the Public, or by Poverty obliged to serve private Families, are not at Liberty to bestow much Time or Care on the Health, must make the best use they can of such Opportunity as their Engagements will afford them. Every Condition has some vacant Hours, which may be employed to the purpose of Health. "The Emperour Antoninus, says Galen, who dispatched so much Business in the Day, began his Exercise always about Sun-set." It is important for a Statesman to observe, that "the more Business he has been fatigued with upon any particular Occasion, the more temperate he ought to live;" and that he should not at such Times, eat a thing hard of Digestion, or drink more Wine than what is just sufficient to refresh him.

It is moreover to be observed, that Persons of all Ranks who eat and drink freely, and are at the same time so much confined by their Employments, as to be able to use little no Exercise abroad, should be sure to use some Exercise within Doors, of which a great Variety may be contrived to every Man's Taste, and should also frequently chaff his Body with a Flesh-Brush in the Morning, and now and then take something very gentle Physic to carry off what may remain indigested in his Stomach and Bowels.

To conclude, the Poor, if they are virtuous and clean, have great Advantages over the Rich, with respect to Health and long Life, as the Narrowness of their Circumstances prompts them to labour, and withdraws all Temptations to Luxury.

The LOVERS INVOCATION OR OLD TIME.

STAY, wither'd Time, where would you fly ?

Sure none reveres you more than I.

While lovers meet your pace refrain,

When parted make it up again.

Oh ! wield your never erring steel,

Against those hearts no passion feel,

Pity your faithful nymph and swain,

And turn our Time-piece o'er again.

PETER D'OVIEDO, bishop of Guitto, maintaining in his Palace, from a principle of charity, a multitude of persons who were of no use to him, his steward represented to him the necessity of retrenching his expences ; and at the same time presented him with a list of those whom he must retain, as well as those whom he ought to discharge : the prelate, after reading the list, says to his steward, " I retain the former because I have need of them, and the latter because they have need of me." —

LOPES D'AGUIRRA raised a rebellion in Grenada ; but finding it impossible to escape those who were sent against him, he stabbed his daughter with his poniard, saying, " That had she survived him, she would always be insulted by being called the daughter of a traitor." One of his own soldiers having broken his arm with a shot from his musket, " You have taken a wrong aim," said Aguirra to him. A second soldier shot him in the breast. " That is right," said he, and fell down dead. —

SAMUEL CHRASANOWSKI being pressed to surrender the fortresses of Trembowla by the vizir Cara Mustapha and his prisoner Makowski, returned this spirited answer : " I am not surprised that you, who are in chains, should have the heart of slave ; but what increases my surprise is, that you should dare to mention the vizir's clemency to me, after the hardships which you and Podhayac have endured. Farewell, all the evil I wish you is to live long in the disgrace and slavery which you deserve. Death, which you have not the heart to meet, would be a favour to you." At the same time he wrote in the following terms to the vizir himself : " Thou art mistaken if thou thinkest to find any gold in this place ; we have nothing but iron, and men, who though few in number, are not wanting in courage. Do not flatter thyself that we shall surrender — so, thou must take us ; and when we are reduced to the last man, I shall be ready to send thee another answer by the mouth of my cannon." The nobility being assembled with an intention to surrender, he addressed them thus : " It is not certain that the enemy can conquer us ; but this is certain, that I am going to blow you up in this very room, if you persist in your cowardly designs of surrendering. Two soldiers are now at the door with lighted matches to execute my orders."

After having sustained four assaults, the courage of Chrasanowski began to give way ; his wife, who had always been at the head of his army, pulled two daggers out of her pocket, saying to him, " One of these are destined for you if you surrender, and the other is for myself." This laconic speech had its signed effect, Chrasanowski held out longer ; Sobieski arrived with his forces, and the town was saved.
